

YOU'RE IN SAFE HANDS!

Broxap awarded new Health and Safety Certification.

---

As part of Broxap's ongoing commitment to improving its Health & Safety, Quality and Environmental standards, we have over the last 18 months been seeking to add the OHSAS 18001:1999 certificate to run alongside our existing management systems standards, ISO 9001 for quality and ISO 14001 for environmental.

After a four day audit, Mr Ian Baker, Broxap's Health & Safety Manager, is pleased to announce that the company has achieved accredited certification to the health and safety standard OHSAS 18001:1999 by leading certification body LRQA.

LRQA's Head of Assessment, Don Stanley added: "In achieving certification to OHSAS 18001:1999, Broxap has publicly demonstrated its commitment to maintaining high levels of health and safety for its employees and visitors. This will be an invaluable addition to the processes and disciplines established previously with its quality and environmental management system certifications."

Mr John Lee summed up the new award by saying:

"This new standard along with Broxap's continuing commitment to quality and environmental improvements and our pursuit of an ever improving carbon footprint demonstrates we are a caring company that recognises the need to not only provide better quality products and respect the environment but also to protect its workforce, making Broxap a safe and healthy environment in which to work."

The picture below left shows the presentation of the certificate by Duane Wood, Head of Sales and Marketing of LRQA, to Ian Baker, Health & Safety Manager (second from right), Sam Lee-Saint, Environmental Manager (far right) and Kevin Buckley, Group Managing Director (far left).

